WESTMINSTER ART CONTEST WINNER SELECTED

Pratt Institute Student Jenna Chi's Work Chosen as Dog Show Poster

New York, N.Y. – The Westminster Kennel Club, partnering for the first time with Pratt Institute for its annual art contest, is pleased to announce that the winning graphic design “German Shepherd” belongs to student Jenna Chi. The contest was open to students and alumni of the Pratt Institute. Entrants were asked to submit a graphic design to commemorate the 142nd Annual Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show held from Feb. 12 – 13, 2018.

Chi, of Brooklyn, New York, was born and raised in Taiwan, Taipei. Chi knew since she was 5-years-old that she wanted to be an artist. She made her way to New York City to pursue an art education and is currently a junior at Pratt Institute pursuing a communication design major with a concentration in graphic design. Her winning idea was to re-create the concept of putting main characters on a movie poster. She selected photos from different breeds and sports to represent the diversity of canines that attend the event. Chi’s winning graphic design will become the commemorative poster and Official Program cover and will join other finalists’ works on a set of notecards. Her work can be found at Jennachidesign.com.

Anna Williams – “Doberman”

Joy Yang – “German Shepherd”

Connie Yuen – “Boxer”

CHARITY RECIPIENTS

Each year, Westminster donates to a dog-related charity from the proceeds of its annual art contest’s commemorative poster and notecards sales. For 2018, proceeds will create a donation of $15,000 to be awarded equally between three national breed clubs for dog rescue efforts. The inaugural winners of $5,000 each to American Kennel Club (AKC)-recognized national breed clubs engaged in dog rescue activities are the Bearded Collie Club of America, the English Cocker Spaniel Club of America, and the Great Pyrenees Club of America.

All events during Westminster Week are presented by Purina Pro Plan®.
